Time Well Spent

I have often heard folk complaining about things that waste their time. It may be waiting in line at the DMV or bank, some nonsense commercial on TV or some talkative relative or acquaintance, but there always seems to be something that becomes an aggravating waste of time. What is most maddening is when the time wasted is time from work; because as we have all said, "time is money".

So as an opposite contrast to a "waste of time" I offer the alternative "time well spent"; these are the times when our investment of time pays dividends. In our lives this is certainly our time with family and loved ones and also the time spent with friends. This certainly applies to our work lives when the time we spend gains valuable information and knowledge. That time we spend learning, thinking of the possibilities and communicating ideas reaps the benefits of improved profitability and effectiveness in our businesses.

This, (of course) takes me to Meeting of the Minds as being time well spent. For a decade we have come together annually to share ideas, learn and spend our time honing our skills to make our business better and lift the bar for the RTO industry. We have a time to purchase, to gear up for the coming holiday season with pricing that certainly helps our bottom line. We have invested time to reacquaint with our friends, valued vendors and to meet with new vendors and see their products. In return we get a profit of knowledge and value. For those of you sitting on the fence or are new to TRIB Group, this will be worth your time and expense to be a part of Meeting of the Minds. It's not too late to register.

ONLY 5+ MONTHS UNTIL CHRISTMAS

It's hard to believe, but the holidays will be here before you know it. Now is the time to think about planning the type of products to display at holiday time. Not only is it important to get ready from an inventory standpoint, it's also time to start focusing on your holiday marketing campaigns. Begin working now to create a calendar of promotions and tactics well in advanced. This can ensure your holiday marketing isn't rushed and reactionary, but well-planned and well executed.

Our marketing vendors can provide complete promotional programs to drive holiday sales.

While discussing upcoming events start thinking about the annual January Think Tank at Las Vegas Furniture Market as well as the annual TRIB Group meeting in March. The March meeting, after many years in Orlando, will be moving to Nashville, TN in 2018.
